Collective intelligence for the benefit of the non-profit community

Solidarity Boost is an initiative with a twofold objective, to strengthen team spirit while helping a non-profit organization find solutions to its challenges or specific issues (positioning, visibility, digitization...)

The support is organized in the form of a virtual workshop where the pooling of skills of participants generates an innovative collective intelligence allowing created teams, accompanied by experts and digital tools, to identify and propose new solutions to the challenges of the non-profit organization.

Structure

- Half or full day workshop
- From 15 to 50 participants
- Experts to guide brainstorming
- Digital tools

In collaboration with Impact Valley
Why throw away your office furniture or IT material when you can give it a well-deserved “Second Life” in a Non-Profit Organization or a school?

3 good reasons

1. Participate in the solidarity chain by offering the associations and schools the basis to work in the best conditions at affordable costs.

2. Neutralize unnecessary costs for logistics, storage or destruction.

3. Converting the "second life" philosophy into concrete action, in line with CSR and sustainability goals.
